

2022 Passage Peregrine Falcons trapping season information

General Information

In August 2008, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service created rules allowing take of 36 passage Peregrine Falcons by falconers anywhere in the U.S. east of 100° W longitude. The three flyway councils east of the 100° W longitude agreed to an equal division among the Central, Mississippi and Atlantic flyways of the total number of birds that may be taken each year. In 2017, The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service increased take from 36 to 144 birds per year. The three flyways councils agreed to a continued equal division among the three flyways of the total number of birds that may be taken each year. In 2018, the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission (NGPC) modified regulations that allows our state to participate in the passage Peregrine Falcon season. In early March 2022, the Central Flyway Council approved a recommendation allocating 35 permits (birds that may be taken) to Texas with the understanding that 40% of the permits will be reserved for nonresident falconers. Kansas and Oklahoma received five permits (birds that may be taken) each and the remaining three permits (birds that may be taken) were allocated to Nebraska.

Falconer Eligibility

Nebraska residents and non-residents who are classified as Master or General Class falconers are eligible to apply to take a passage Peregrine Falcon. Resident falconers may apply for written permission and non-residents may apply for a Raptor Collecting Permit annually to take one (1) passage Peregrine Falcon per year. Both residents and non-residents should use Nebraska Passage Peregrine Falcon Application Form that is available at <http://outdoornebraska.gov/falconry/> or by request from NGPC. If the number of applications exceeds the available number of birds that may be taken in Nebraska (three in 2022), regulations dictate how individuals will be selected. Pertinent regulations (Title 163, Chapter 4, Wildlife Regulations, Section 009, Falconry, Sub-section 009.09) are provided on the following page.

Non-residents applying for a Raptor Collecting Permit may request to capture species in addition to a passage Peregrine Falcon. A Raptor Collecting Permit is valid for capturing no more than two raptors during a twelve month period. Passage birds of other species may be captured during the period 1 August through 31 January. Once a non-resident submits a copy of the 3-186a form to NGPC within five (5) days of capturing a second passage bird, the Raptor Collecting Permit is canceled. Non-resident falconers applying for a Raptor Collecting Permit must include a copy of their valid falconry permit. If a non-resident applicant is selected to have the opportunity to take a passage Peregrine Falcon in Nebraska, NGPC will contact the individual after 1 August requesting payment. Once payment is received, the Raptor Collecting Permit will be issued. If a selected non-resident falconers voluntarily forfeits the opportunity and withdraws their Raptor Collecting Permit application, another falconer will be selected in accordance with regulations.

Trapping season Requirements

- The passage Peregrine Falcon season is from September 20 – October 20, 2022.
- Only one passage Peregrine Falcon may be captured and possessed by a falconer.
- No banded Peregrine Falcons may be taken. If a banded raptor is accidentally captured, NGPC requests band numbers and colors be recorded and photographs taken if possible. The bird must be immediately released. Band numbers and photographs of such incidentally-captured birds should be submitted to NGPC no later than October 31, 2022.
- A Peregrine Falcon that falconers take and intend to possess for falconry must be banded with a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service black falconry band. If you do not have a USFWS falconry band, contact NGPC.
- A falconer must submit a 3-186A form within five (5) calendar days of capturing a Peregrine Falcon.

Nebraska regulations regarding Passage Peregrine Falcon take

009.09 PASSAGE PEREGRINE FALCON TRAPPING SEASON

009.09A Applications: Resident falconers may apply for written permission and non-residents may apply for a Raptor Collecting Permit annually to take one (1) passage Peregrine Falcon. To be considered, all requests and applications must be received by August 1 of the trapping year and authorizations and permits will be issued no later than September 19 by the Commission.

009.09B Available Take: The overall number of passage Peregrine Falcons that may be taken and not to be exceeded in the Central Flyway during any one year shall be determined by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The Central Flyway Council will determine the number of passage Peregrine Falcons each state within the Central Flyway will be allotted.

009.09C Preference: Applications for written permission submitted by resident falconers may be preferred and issued over applications for Raptor Collecting Permits submitted by non-residents. If the total number of applications from residents and non-residents combined does not exceed the available take, then all requests for written permission and Raptor Collecting Permits may be issued. If the number of applications for written permission submitted by resident falconers exceeds the available take, all resident applications may be considered equally in a drawing. If the total number of applications submitted by nonresidents for a Raptor Collecting Permit exceeds the remaining available take once resident applications have been considered and filled, then all non-resident applications for a Raptor Collecting Permit may be considered equally in a drawing.

Important Regulations pertaining to the capture of raptors in Nebraska

NOTE: The following is NOT a complete set of all Nebraska falconry statutes and regulations.
